SENATE SEEKS WAYS TO CORK ATOM SECRETS

Baring of Soviet Success in Gathering Information
Startles Lawmakers.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Startled by reports that Russia had some success probing into atomic bomb secrets, Senators sought assurance today that any chinks in the security wall were being patched quickly.

Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), told a reporter the whole security matter would be discussed at length soon with David E. Lilienthal and military experts at a closed meeting of the full senate-house atomic committee. Lilienthal has been nominated as chairman of this country's atomic control commission.

Hickenlooper also announced that the joint committee had hired as its executive director Fred B. Rhodes, former army major who directed intelligence work on the Manhattan A-bomb project.

The Iowa senator would not comment on reports that Bernard M. Baruch told a locked door meeting yesterday that there was evidence of Russian penetration into some of this country's supposedly well-kept secrets about the atomic project.

Baruch was described by one committee member as having told the senators that the way the Soviets framed some of their questions during United Nations discussion on control plans indicated that they knew more about the workings of the American setup than they were supposed to.

Misuse Code Word.
There were signs, Baruch was said to have told the committee members, that the Russians did not know what certain information in their possession meant or how to use it. This was reported to have been disclosed through the misuse by the Soviets of a code word the Americans thought was known only to atomic experts in this country.

The committee called Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university, for testimony this afternoon on nominations it now has under consideration for five members of the atomic commission and a general manager.

Conant, who heads the commission's general advisory committee on scientific and technical matters, also is expected to be asked about security problems.

WAR CONTROLS FACE BATTLE

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Congressional Republicans tossed the ball back to President Truman today by challenging him to justify his request for extension of major war powers.

Recalling their election pledge to end government controls as soon as possible, GOP house leaders promised a complete review of the administration's "great control complex" when they take up Mr. Truman's request.

The president sent the lawmakers a message yesterday urging a year's extension of controls over sugar and other scarce foods and over industrial materials and shipping. These provisions of the second war powers act now are slated to expire March 31.

Chairman Earl C. Michener, R-Mich., of the house judiciary committee, which will take up the president's request, said Mr. Truman would be given an opportunity to prove the necessity of prolonging the regulations.

"These all were intended as emergency war powers and only those should remain which are essential to the functioning of the government," he said.

Rep. John M. Robinson, R., Ky., second in command on the judiciary committee, said "there is no doubt that we will review all controls when we take up the president's request."

"We made a promise to the American people that we will get rid of controls as quickly as possible and we intend to meet that promise," Robinson said. Individual members of the judiciary committee, he added, already are making independent studies of the "great control complex."

Fire Traps 100 On Chinese Boat

HONG KONG — (UP) — An estimated 100 Chinese died of asphyxiation today when fire gutted the river steamer Saion an hour before it was due to leave its dock for Canton.

Police said it was difficult to ascertain the exact number of dead. They counted 60 bodies already removed from the charred bulk.

Dems Fill All But 2 Places On City Slate

Democratic party leaders today revealed that their primary ticket vacancies had been cut to two, leaving only the solicitor and First ward councilman posts open.

Meanwhile, Republican leaders still had six apparent ticket vacancies but listed two men as being mentioned for the treasurer and First ward council spots.

Deadline for filing as a candidate in the May municipal primaries is 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, election board officials said.

Newest names on the Democratic ticket were William Beer, former clerk of council, for Second ward councilman; Arthur Flood, Westinghouse employee, Third ward; and Harry Bowman, former candidate for councilman and state representative, for the Fourth ward councilman post.

Listed by Republicans as potential candidates were Albert Benson, Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company auditor, for city treasurer, while Thomas Wright, a Westinghouse employee, was reported as a possible candidate for the First ward council post.

May 'Draft' Wagner.
Democrats still had no candidate for city solicitor and added there was "talk" of drafting City

Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner for the job. Wagner has said he would not seek re-election.

A party spokesman said "draft Wagner" talk has grown out of the fact that much legislation concerning the Clear Fork water reservoir project is still pending and that Wagner is familiar with the project.

Other men being mentioned for the solicitor spot on the Democratic ticket are Charles Freehafer, Earl Gaar and Joseph Ellison.

Democratic candidates for the first ward councilman post is still indefinite, a party spokesman said, but talk centers around Fred D. Sells, former sheriff; J. L. Stover, president of a truck drivers' union, and Jay Cairns, who competed for a council post during the last election.

INDUSTRIALIST FLAYS UNIONS

Auto Official Urges Law To Halt Industrywide Labor
Bargaining Tactics.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — B. E. Hutchinson, vice president of the Chrysler corporation, attacked "monopoly" practices of labor unions today and urged congress to go beyond a pending legislative proposal to break up industrywide bargaining.

He recommended comprehensive changes in labor laws in testimony before the senate labor committee. Similar appeals were made by two milk industry spokesmen, Benjamin F. Castle, director of the Milk Industry foundation, and Calvin Clarke, owner of the Portsmouth Pure Milk company, at Portsmouth, O., and Ashland, Ky.

Hutchinson said monopolistic practices by labor were "just as destructive of free competition and our economic system as monopolistic practices on the part of business and industry."

He endorsed the objective of the bill sponsored by Sen. Joseph H. Ball, R., Minn., to outlaw industrywide bargaining. Although the automobile industry does not negotiate on an industrywide basis, he said, a shutdown of Chrysler could be forced by nationwide strikes.

Suggests Change.
But Hutchinson suggested that congress go farther than Ball's proposals to limit bargaining units to a single company or to an area covering not more than 100 miles. He thought joint bargaining covering more than one company should be allowed only for small firms employing less than 1,000 workers.

Hutchinson listed the closed shop and union welfare funds as factors contributing to monopolistic control of unions. He recommended that congress forbid the establishment of welfare funds.

2 STAFF MEMBERS AT HOSPITAL QUIT

Two staff members at General hospital have resigned, Miss Dorothy Bird, supervisor of nurses at the hospital, announced today.

Resigning were Miss Colleen Humphreys, who was assistant surgery supervisor, and Miss Bessie Easley, nursing arts instructor.

Miss Easley will be replaced by Mrs. Julia Raby, 496 Howard street. Mrs. Raby is a graduate of the Colorado State Teachers college at Greeley, where she received her AB degree in nursing education. A successor to Miss Humphreys has not been named.

Miss Bird said Miss Humphreys will leave for Chicago.

Miss Easley will take over tomorrow as instructor with the newly-organized home nursing course of the Red Cross chapter here. She will replace Mrs. Clementine Fiegenbaum, who was unable to continue with the job.

SLAVE STATION BURNS

CINCINNATI — (UP) — A two-story mansion used during the Civil war as an overnight rest station for slaves, being moved north by the historic "underground" railway was destroyed by fire late yesterday. Damage to the 110-year-old structure located in suburban Glendale, was estimated at $2,300.

NEW TAX CUT BILL OFFERED

Allen Proposes Compromise
Measure to Aid Small Income Earners.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — A tax cutting compromise which would give small income earners twice as big a percentage slash as those in the upper brackets was proposed to GOP leaders today by Chairman Allen (R., Ill.) of the house rules committee.

Under Allen's scale, taxes on incomes up to $2,500 would be pared 20 per cent; $2,500 to $5,000, 17 per cent; $5,000 to $10,000, 15 per cent; above $10,000, 10 per cent.

The Illinois lawmaker estimated his proposal would mean an overall tax reduction of about $2,750,000,000, compared with the $2,750,000,000 loss of revenue under the 20 per cent across-the-board cut advocated by Chairman Knutson (R., Minn.) of the ways and means committee.

Knutson's bill providing the flat reduction has roused sharp opposition even within his own party.

Taber Fights Deficit.
Meanwhile Chairman Taber (R., N.Y.) of the house appropriations committee declared the 1947 budget—covering the 12 months ending next June 30—could be balanced if the war assets administration could sell $1,000,000,000 of war surpluses in the next five months.

Treasury officials still estimate a 1947 deficit of $2,300,000,000. But Taber, insisting the deficit could be wiped out said he will whittle away at appropriations made by the last congress.

He made his first cutback attempt at the OPA, saying he intended to block a $6,500,000 supplemental appropriation request the agency made yesterday and to trim a "substantial amount" from its $101,000,000 previous appropriation for the current fiscal year.

M'Cullough Named To Highway Post

COLUMBUS — (UP) — State Highway Director Murray D. Shaffer announced today the appointments of division engineers for Divisions 9, 10 and 11.

E. R. McCullough was named in Division 11, which includes Tuscarawas, Holmes, Carroll, Columbiana, Harrison, Jefferson and Belmont counties.

Palestine Leaders Urge British to Change Plan

JERUSALEM — (AP) — Jewish leaders appealed to the British today to reconsider plans for imposing martial law on the Holy Land, where grim tension was heightened by the speedy evacuation of British women and children as a convicted Jewish underground member waited to march to the gallows.

There was no official announcement from the government as to when the underground, 33-year-old Dov Bela Gruner, would hang. Executions in Palestine usually take place on Tuesday and Gruner was scheduled to die a week ago today, but won a delay.

Some informants expressed doubts that he would die today, since the evacuation of 1,621 women and children and 87 men was not scheduled for completion until tonight.

There seemed to be little doubt, however, of the British intent to strike at the underground as soon as Gruner hangs, to prevent reprisals. The first government blow was expected to be martial law of some type.

Mrs. Golda Myerson, head of the political department of the Jerusalem branch of the Jewish agency, appealed to the government to "reconsider its fateful decision at this very last moment" and the municipal council of the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv and the Jewish Federation of Labor (Histadruth) made similar pleas.

In the Kin Rehavia district of Jerusalem, 150 families were ordered last night to evacuate houses and apartments in an area near the office of the Jewish agency within 48 hours.

Agency Warned.
Tel Aviv's mayor, Israel Rokach, said last night the British had warned the agency, official spokesman for some 600,000 Palestine Jews, that it would face military "countermeasures" unless it cooperated in stamping underground violence within a week.

SCHOOL BOARD RULES AGAINST SEEING EYE DOG; BLIND GIRL FACES LOSS OF 'EYES' OR FRIENDS

By PATRICIA CLARY
LOS ANGELES — (UP) — Blind Patsy Ruth Fergus, 16, sat in her trailer home today with her guide dog at her feet, trying to decide whether to give up her high school friends or the only eyes she has known.

The city board of education said it had to be one or the other. She can't bring the gentle, pure white German shepherd to school any more.

"The dog is a potential hazard to other students," school board President, J. Paul Elliott said.

PATSY CAN'T understand that.
"All the kids love Lucky," she said. "She loves people, too, and she's been especially trained to be quiet in classes."

Hazel Hurst, president of the Foundation for the Blind which supplied the dog, said the 16-month-old female had to be with Patsy 24 hours a day in order to understand the need for her services.

"It is too bad for a girl of 16 to feel that the sighted world objects to the only eyes she has," Miss Hurst said.

PATSY, PARTIALLY blind since birth and totally blind for the last four years, was given the dog a few months ago as the present of a neighbor.

The board of education offered to send a private teacher to her home if she decided against giving up Lucky, but Patsy said she'd rather go to school.

"I like to be with the kids," she said. "Now that I have Lucky I'm having much more fun than I ever had."

"THE OTHER STUDENTS at Alexander Hamilton high school want Patsy, too," her mother, Mrs. Harry Fergus, wrote to the Civil Rights congress. "They all signed a petition asking that she be allowed to keep her dog."

"That proves she is no menace to society, as the principal suggested to us."

"They don't take crutches from the lame. Why do they take the eyes from the blind?"

Mercury Dips 36 Degrees In 8-Hour Period

Coldest Weather of Winter Blankets
Midwest; No Relief Promised
Before Thursday Afternoon.

The worst cold wave of the winter rle into Mansfield today on an icy northwestern gale that sent the mercury sliding 36 degrees in eight hours and brought orders for full curtailment of natural gas consumption to nearly 25 major industries in the city area.

The weatherman predicted below-zero readings in the northern half of Ohio by tomorrow morning and said there was little hope of relief from the biting cold before Thursday afternoon. The mercury stood at four above zero in Mansfield shortly before noon today.

Only a minimum lay-off of workers was expected to result from the order to conserve gas, due to the installation of stand-by equipment, a check of industries revealed today.

Westinghouse, hardest hit by recent gas shortages, cut in propane stand-by equipment for the first time this morning and expected to maintain normal production, depending upon the length of the cold wave and transportation, company spokesmen said.

Plants Get Order

G. K. Scholer, manager of the Mansfield office of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, reported that all major industries in this area were asked to accomplish full curtailment of natural gas by 8 a. m. today. This would affect all plants consuming more than 50,000 cubic feet of gas per day, he said.

Schooler asked that home users of gas also make an effort to conserve gas and refrain from using gas to supplement their normal coal and oil heat.

At least one death in the state was attributed to the cold today when Levi L. Bauman, 76, was found dead in the snow near his Findlay home. The mercury stood at three above zero in Findlay at 8 a. m., and was falling.

Weatherman C. G. Andrus of Cleveland said there would be a definite rise in temperature Thursday afternoon and that conditions would be back to winter normal by Friday.

The mercury dropped seven degrees between 2 and 3 a. m., today in Mansfield as high winds whipped the cold wave into the state. The temperature held at four above zero during most of the morning and the wind slackened a little.

Drops to 18 Below

Coldest spot in the nation today was Minot, N. D., where the temperature hit 18 degrees below zero. Seventeen below was recorded at Bismarck, N. D.; 15 below at Duluth, Minn., and seven below at Milwaukee.

The weatherman said the gales and paralyzing cold would reach the Atlantic and Gulf coasts by tonight.

The cold wave was the second of the month and originated as an arctic blast out of the Yukon territory, where a continental low of 83 degrees below zero was registered yesterday.

A light fall of snow that followed rain over Ohio was being whipped by the high wind. The state department of highways reported all roads slippery and urged caution.

County and state highway departments in Richland county reported all roads passible but were prepared to begin plowing operations should drifts develop.

Confession Bares Honolulu Scandal

HONOLULU — (UP) — The worst graft scandal in Honolulu history was headed for the grand jury today after William Clark, former vice squad sergeant, signed a confession implicating scores of persons.

Clark's confession was said to have involved present and former members of the Honolulu police department along with gamblers and other underworld characters in the Hawaiian capital.

BOARD FALLS BY WAYSIDE

Public Appeals Group Will Be
Dormant Until Public Shows
Interest, Mayor Says.

Mayor R. W. Vaughn said today that the Mansfield Public Appeals Review board, set up last year as a means of controlling land solicitations in the city, could be "dormant" until the public feels it should be re-activated.

In recent months interest in the board's work has declined to the point where Vaughn said he feels it should be re-activated.

"It's got to have 100 per cent cooperation and be accepted by the public if it is to mean anything," the mayor declared.

"It had an official status. It could not just go from being a public body to a private one. It was organized to put the stamp of approval on solicitations as a means of protecting the public," he said.

Vaughn, outlining the need for such a group, cited a national survey which stated that numerous, apparently worthy funds actually do no public good. "It was this type of fund solicitations which the board was created to control," he explained.

Attendance Drops

However, he said, during the board's last two meetings only three of its nine members attended—"not enough to allow us to conduct elections."

Atty. J. L. Gungwer, former chairman of the board, has resigned. Vaughn said he has not named a successor and will name none unless the public is interested in the work.

Other members of the board and groups they represent include Millard Pryor, manufacturers; Joseph Blahnik, retail merchants; Russell Ford, city council; Roy Waxler and Carl Becker, labor, and Ken Wehrman and John M. O'Hara, public information groups. Gungwer represented civic groups.

FORCES CREATE JOINT COMMAND

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The army and navy were disclosed today to be planning the creation of a new joint command to supervise all problems of warfare by germ, atom or conventional weapons.

Details of the new weapons organization had worked out by Secretary of War Patterson and Navy Secretary Forrestal are yet to be completed.

Disclosure that the new army-navy command is being planned followed practice by Lt. Col. David B. Paider, corps of engineers, that atomic warfare command would be set up.

The organization now being considered by the two secretaries will not be confined just to atomic warfare problems, however.

Chamber Dinner First in History Open to Women

For the first time in the history of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturers' club, the annual membership dinner Feb. 14 in the Coliseum will be open to women.

John Roulin, secretary-manager of the chamber, in making clear that "women are invited," said today that tickets could be obtained by telephoning the chamber office (1368-6) or calling at the chamber offices in the Farmersbank building.

The dinner is open to all members of the Chamber and the Manufacturers' club and their guests. Arrangements have been made to accommodate more than 100 persons.

Accidents Kill 100,000 During 1946

CAR MISHAPS ACCOUNT FOR 33,500 DEAD

Safety Council Estimates Economic Loss For Year at $5,600,000,000.

CHICAGO (AP)—Accidents in the United States in 1946 killed 100,000 persons, injured millions and caused an estimated economic loss of $5,600,000,000, the national safety council said today.

The death toll was four per cent above the 1945 total of 95,918 but the council said the 100,000 figure "is significant when it is recalled that at the end of the first four months of 1946 the motor vehicle death toll alone was up 45 per cent."

Motor accidents alone accounted for 33,500 dead. Passenger deaths on the railroads totaled 89 and on regularly scheduled airlines 75.

A man's own home appeared the least safe place of all. In home accidents 34,000 persons died.

Safer at Work. His place of work seemed somewhat safer. Occupational accidents killed 16,500.

One out of every 13 persons in the country suffered a disabling injury last year.

A winning competitor may have any one of three reasons for passing early in the auction with the distinct intention of entering it in some positive way later. The first and most widely observed one is a lack of high card strength together with considerable distributional value in long suit length. The second is appreciable strength defensively against some suit or suits already named by the opposition—what ordinarily is called a trap pass. The third is a desire to find out what the opponents are going to bid, with the idea of then disclosing your own favored declaration.

Toward the end of 1946 they levelled off at the 1945 rate. The council attributed the improvement to "a concerted safety program by public officials and safety organizations" instituted after President Truman's highway safety conference last May.

COUNTERFEITER 'TAKE' GROWING

WASHINGTON (AP)—The public's losses from counterfeit money during 1946 more than doubled those in 1945, the secret service has disclosed.

It was the first year-to-year increase in several years. The 1946 loss was $47,129, sharply up from $18,135 but still trifling compared with the mid-30's, when counterfeiting took the public for as much as $1,000,000 a year.

The secret service struck back. Chief James J. Maloney, in a report to Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, said the service doubled its 1945 arrests for counterfeiting, taking in 85 persons last year. Mounting thefts and forgeries of government bonds and government checks combined with the flurry of counterfeiting to give the secret service a busy year.

Two cases involving "the most important counterfeiting enterprises discovered by the service in recent years" were recounted in the report.

Plates Recovered. In one, engraved plates from which $110,000 in counterfeit $20 notes had been printed were recovered from the bottom of the Passaic river near Newark, N. J., after a four-day search by navy divers cooperating with the secret service.

The case wound up with seizure of all the bogus bills and arrest of five persons on counterfeiting charges.

In the other, an "old offender" managed to get just 39 bogus $5 and $10 federal reserve notes into circulation before secret service agents recognized his "touch" like

Another agent with a memory for faces recognized the quarry on a St. Louis street and arrested him. He pleaded guilty and drew a 15-year sentence.

STEVENS
DONALD EUGENE, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stevens, who passed away, 3 years ago today. I may not know the reason why. Dark clouds so often veil the sky. But tho' the sea be smooth or rough, The Lord knows why and that's enough. I may not know why I am led. So often in the paths I tread. But trusting Him, I'll press my way. The Lord knows why—I'll obey. I may not know why death should come. To take a loved one from my home; But tho' mine eyes with tears be dim, The Lord knows why—I'll trust in Him. So, tho' I may not understand, The leadings of the Father's hand; I know to all he holds the key. He understands each mystery. Oh yes, He knows, the Lord knows why. These things are ordered from the sky. And tho' dark clouds may hide the sun, The Lord knows why—His will be done. H. F. DISKOSKY.

Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

JUST KIDS

Try and Stop Me
—By Bennet Ceri
Two hitchhikers from Elberon, N. J., finally made it to Santa Ana, Calif. The first thing they did was to gaze over the blue water of the Pacific.
"Just think," said one of them, "this here Pacific Ocean is over twice as big as the Atlantic."
The second one shaded his eye and scanned the empty waters very diligently. After a moment he spoke. "It sure is," he said.
The above recalls another travel story, this one about the forlorn ragamuffin who foolishly sidled up to a book publisher on Broadway the other evening and whined, "Sir, I am trying to thumb my way to Oregon and I need a little change for food on the way. Can you spare a fellow a dollar bill?"
The publisher looked him over and (remember, this is just a story) fished out two dollars from his pockets. "Better take two dollars," he advised. "You might not like it there."

Ohio Senate Committee Hires Liquor Investigator

SENATORS PLAN FULL CHECKUP OF DEPARTMENT

Legislature Awaits Report of House Committee on Amount of Funds Available.

COLUMBUS — (NS)—The work of the special senate liquor investigation committee got under way in earnest today with the appointment of Frank J. Collopy, 31-year-old Columbus attorney, as chief investigator at $300 a month salary.

The appointment was announced by Sen. Koscoe Walcutt (R-Columbus) committee chairman, who reiterated that there would be no conflict between the senate probe into all operations of the liquor department the last two or more years with the probe of Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins, who is scanning the granting of club permits in the closing days of the Lausche administration.

Committees to Report. Meanwhile, the interest of legislators swung to two committee hearings in the senate and to the expected report today of the house committee which is attempting to determine just how much money is available for appropriation by what may be the first billion-dollar legislature in Ohio's history.

The house committee, headed by Rep. Paul Ballard (R-Jackson) was named by Speaker C. William O'Neill in an attempt to prevent raids on the state treasury by schools, local governments, state employees, and other departments seeking greatly increased appropriations.

The senate hearings were held by the senate education committee, which is opening deliberations of the 184 million dollar Daniels-Cramer school aid bill, and by a military affairs subcommittee considering a bonus for veterans of World War II.

The bill before the education committee is sponsored by the Ohio Education committee and was introduced by Sens. Al Daniels (R-Greenfield), chairman of the powerful senate finance committee, and Virgil Cramer (R-Toledo), both long-time advocates of increased aid to schools.

The bonus proposals before the subcommittee were given their first hearings last week, when three different veterans' organizations backed separate proposals.

The house held only a skeleton session last night, while the senate accepted five more bills in its hopper and a finance committee report calling for an increase in the salaries of certain state officials.

The bill, approved by an 8-0 vote of the committee, probably will be brought to the floor for a vote Wednesday.

Library Lists Books Needed For Kiddies' 'Treasure Chest'

In response to scores of requests for the list of acceptable books for the "Treasure Chest" which will be sent to children in a foreign land by the Mansfield Public Library, Miss Eva Leonard, children's librarian, today issued a partial list of books and their prices.

ST. PAUL'S PARISH GETS NEW PASTOR

LUCAS — Rev. Paul Buckholtz, former navy chaplain of Zanesville, was named pastor of St. Paul's-Pleasant Valley parish in Lucas Sunday in congregational meetings following regular morning services in the two churches.

Rev. Buckholtz, who has filled the pulpits in the churches three times this year, will assume the new charge at once. He succeeds Rev. O. S. Goerner, who resigned Jan. 1 to accept a call at Holgate. He had served in Lucas for five years.

Rev. Buckholtz was graduated from Wittenberg college and the Hanna Divinity seminary at Springfield and had served one year as pastor at Orrville when he enlisted in the chaplains corps. He is married and the father of a young child.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, February 5. ALTHOUGH affairs are under a progressive and expansive trend it may take some clever strategies as well as some sort of special effort or well-directed programs to avert complications or the withdrawal of support from sources of critical importance. Subtle, sagacious or even undercover agreements, or understandings as side issues may eventually prove most propitious and of lasting benefit. But such tactics call for exceptional skill and finesse. Shun rash and impulsive acts, as the judgment may not be dependable, or decisions clear.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of intriguing and evoked situations in which the judgment is liable to be obscured and the emotions and impulses of wayward, reckless and perilous nature. This might alienate the aid and generous support of those whose assistance is vital to the long-range and expanding outcome of current interests. It would be well to treat critical situations with finesse and subtlety, with a dash of fair intrigue or tact understandings.

A child born on this day may have much cleverness, ability and shrewdness, apt to gain its objectives by stratagem and subtlety rather than its turbulent or obscure judgment.

PLAN MEETING ON DIPHTHERIA

Dr. Fred O. Tonney, city-county health commissioner, said today he has been invited to meet Monday with the Union Rural high school board to discuss compulsory diphtheria immunization for school children.

The invitation follows the death of a 15-year-old Union Rural girl pupil yesterday of diphtheria.

Dr. Tonney said he will point out the prevalence of diphtheria in the county as compared with Mansfield and cite the fact that the disease is making a comeback throughout the country.

He said he will strongly recommend immunization of all Weller-Franklin townships school children up to the age of 12 and a "booster" inoculation before entering high school.

The commissioner said that on the basis of population, there are eight times as many diphtheria cases in the county as there are in Mansfield.

Mansfield makes compulsory the immunization of school children against the disease; the county with the exception of Bellville, does not, Dr. Tonney said.

U. S. ASKS ARMS CUT SAFEGUARDS

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — (AP) — The United States told the United Nations Security Council today that this country would never consent to any international plan for the reduction of arms until "concrete and enforceable safeguards" had been set up to prevent violations.

This declaration came from Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate, as he laid before the council a resolution providing that the United Nations give top priority to atomic control in the pending discussions of world-wide arms reduction.

Austin made it clear that the United States not only would insist on priority for atomic control but that it would also demand an airtight system of international security, including a world police force and inspection agencies, before it would agree to slash its armaments.

Crowd of 1,000 Assured For 'Elmer the Sizzler'

A turn-away crowd appeared assured today for the Mansfield appearance of "Elmer the Sizzler."

V. H. Lodde, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Retail Merchants' association, said so in disclosing that 750 reservations already had been made for the association rally in John Simpson auditorium, Wednesday, Feb. 12, at 7:45 p. m. Admittance to the rally will be by ticket only.

Tickets are available to all members of the merchants' association and their employees. Since the auditorium accommodates only 1,000 persons, Lodde emphasized that tickets should be obtained without delay.

The committee planning the appearance of Elmer (Sizzle) Wheeler will meet Wednesday at 10 a. m. in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room to complete plans for the event. Members of the committee are Sam Campbell, Tom Siegenthaler, Robert Schroer, Harry Buchan, W. Toole, Von Davis, Larry Hess, Carlton Fernyak and J. M. O'Hara.

Elmer the Sizzler is the president of the Tested Selling Institute, author, and national sales promotion idea man who originated such household expressions as: "Don't sell the steak, sell the sizzle," "Say it with flowers," and "Don't write—telegraph."

Wheeler is being brought to Mansfield by the Merchants' association in the realization that now is not too late for a return of the principles of "selling" instead of "order taking."

The rally is the first move of the association in its effort to spur the pace of retail business in Mansfield in line with the development of the city industrially. It is becoming increasingly evident, Lodde pointed out, that Mansfield is becoming more and more an important retail center for a large section of north central Ohio.

Heard by a Million. Wheeler, a humorist, whose speeches were heard by more than 1,000,000 persons last year, comes billed as the "shortest speaker in America." A vote of 500 audiences brought him the title of "most popular speaker" over such runners-up as Erle Johnston, C. F. Kettering and B. C. Forbes.

More than 90 laughs have been clocked from his audience at one of his serio-humorous talks.

The Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc., announced yesterday that a bus will leave the Westinghouse plant at 11:15 p. m., daily through Friday this week for Fourth and Main streets and then continue on the Hedges route.

C. M. Ross, superintendent, said the company has inaugurated the service on a one-week trial basis, which, if successful, will be continued. He said the service was started as an accommodation for persons living in the southeast section of the city.

Ross said the firm has just added a 25-passenger bus to its fleet and four more similar buses are expected in "a few months."

He said the company has five new 32-passenger buses on order and hopes to have them by late summer. The bus which arrived recently has been placed in service on the South Main-Bowman route.

Mansfield city buses carried 4,508,005 passengers last year, including both fare and transfer passengers, Ross announced.

This figure is less than in 1945 when 4,575,137 persons rode the buses. The drop was attributed to the fact that the Westinghouse and Empire strikes occurred early in 1946.

CITY COUNCIL CONSIDERING PARK METERS

Shelby Lawmakers Withhold
Passage of Ordinance
Until Next Week.

SHELBY—City council gave first reading to an ordinance for installing parking meters on downtown streets when it held a regular semi-monthly session Monday night at the city hall.

The ordinance was held over until the next meeting after a motion for the second reading made by Fourth Ward Councilman Bill Cook failed to get a second.

Approximately 227 meters can be placed on Shelby streets, a survey made by a meter company showed. The meters cost $77 apiece installed. They would be placed on Main street, Second street to the New York Central railroad tracks, and possibly on side streets downtown.

Hodges Favors Meters.

Wayne Hodges, Shelby Better Business club representative, spoke in behalf of the meters, pointing out that he had found farm organizations in the area favorable to the parking meters. He also asserted that Norwalk had cleared $50,000 since the installation of 204 meters. Ashland averages $250 a week from 130 meters, while Bucyrus's 200 meters bring in $1,000 per month, he said.

M. E. Berkley, former Better Business club president, said that he had been asked to appear at the meeting by a number of directors of the club to point out that they did not feel as though the city needed the meters. "Anybody can walk down Main street during almost any time in the day and find 50 per cent of the parking spaces unused," he pointed out.

Insufficient Revenue.

"The revenue from the meters may not pay for the meters and the additional patrolmen that will probably be needed to service them," Berkley said.

An ordinance authorizing a one mill special operational levy to be placed before the voters at the next general election for a $14,000 fire truck and $5,000 rest rooms was approved. The levy, if approved by voters, would be for two years.

Unless there is at least one contest at the primary election in May, the levy will be placed on the November ballot. Under legislation passed recently by council, the primaries would be eliminated if there are no contests, saving the city approximately $600.

Seeks Garbage Truck.

Norman Till, who has sub-contracted for the garbage collection in Shelby from Roy Shade, asked council for permission to purchase a garbage truck so that he would not have to buy additional garbage cans. Till pointed out that a used truck would cost approximately $1,000.

STEVENS ORDERED TO LIMA HOSPITAL

ASHLAND—Edward C. Stevens, 37, of Ashland, recently indicted by the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of $50 from the Catholic parish house, has been ordered committed to the Lima State hospital for the Criminal Insane for a 30-day period of observation.

The action by Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson followed Stevens' appearance in court Monday to plead guilty to grand larceny. After the plea was entered, his counsel stated that Stevens had suffered a head injury earlier in his life which causes him to suffer amnesia.

The defendant claimed it was during an attack of amnesia that the robbery was committed. He said he did not remember how he gained admission to the house or any other details except that he had found the money in its hiding place.

Series of Airline Disasters Draws Congressional Inquiry

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A bunch of plane crashes late in 1946 has started congress digging around in the airlines' business.

It's been slow, dragged-out, unsensational digging. It's still going on and will continue.

Here are the pieces pulled together to bring you up to date on the why and how.

In 1946 there were 11 crashes on U. S. airlines which killed 34 crewmen and 115 passengers. Nine happened in this country, two abroad.

But seven of those eleven crashes occurred in the last three months of 1946.

This brought congressmen back here, when congress opened in January, calling for a congressional investigation.

Two committees, the senate and house committees on commerce, began hearings.

THOSE HEARINGS started Jan. 14. Government and airlines' officials and army aviation experts have testified at them.

Their testimony, as pointed out above, has been less than startling.

And when the hearings are all over, what will be the result? No one can tell at this stage.

Congress may decide to do several things to make air travel safer. For example—

Pass new laws and spend a good deal of government money for safety equipment, if the airlines can't afford it.

(Maybe it won't want to spend money for that. All the talk in congress now is about cutting down government expenses, not adding to them.)

The kind of safety equipment being talked about is this:

Radar and radio for landing equipment for dispersing fog around airports, and better lights around airports.

How much would it cost? In the millions. Senator Brewster, Maine Republican, figures it would cost $900,000 to install at each major airport.

But W. A. Patterson, president of United Airlines, says it would make air travel as safe as land travel in three to five years.

JAMES M. LANDIS, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), the government's big boss of civilian flying, says it would help tremendously.

But—

William A. M. Burden, assistant secretary of commerce, says the civilian airlines can't afford a real modernization of the airways.

So he says congress should vote to put up government money for such a safety program.

He says this about the financial shape of the airlines:

In the first nine months of 1945 they earned $33,000,000 but in the first nine months of 1946 they earned only $4,000,000, a $29,000,000 drop.

The government has two agencies in charge of civilian flying: The CAB, mentioned above, and the Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA).

CAB, the big boss, lays down the rules. CAA carries them out. But sometimes, as in a plane crash, CAB acts as cop and jury.

It will investigate a plane crash and impose any penalties it thinks are necessary. (CAA also investigates plane crashes.)

Because of CAB's double job in such cases—cop and judge—some congressmen think an investigating board, apart from CAB, should be set up.

But that's still in the very early talking stage.

Meanwhile, there'll be plenty of talk—all kinds—before there's action of any kind by congress to make air travel safer.

Solomon's household was small compared with that of two African kings. According to Encyclopaedia Britannica, Mtessa of Uganda and the King of Loango are said to have had 7,000 wives.

SPIKE AND DAINTYFOOT

The eager arrogance of youth
Mistakes desire for the truth.
—Old Mother Nature.

They were twins. Spike and his sister Daintyfoot. It was a common saying that never had two finer young Deer followed the Crooked Little Path winding among the trees from here to yonder, or the dim trails of their own folk. They were now well along in their second year, which was just the big and little age. That is, they felt big, in fact quite grown-up, but really were two small Deer who as yet didn't know how little they did know of the Great World and its ways. It was an age that every boy and girl knows sooner or later.

In the summer a very wonderful thing had happened. Anyway Spike thought it a very wonderful thing, but I am not sure that Daintyfoot did. It began happening late in the spring, very near the time they were a year old. Spike was bothered by two little spots on his head that at first itched, then began to be very tender so that he was careful not to rub his head against trunks of trees or low branches. It was no longer fun to butt his sister in play as he had often done before. Two little bunches appeared on his head and grew. They were covered with skin and very tender. When Spike stood at the edge of water and saw his reflection he didn't know what to make of those two bunches. Daintyfoot had no.

As those bunches grew Spike felt out of sorts and inclined to be cross. Anyway that is what his sister said. He liked to keep by himself, to remain quiet. It was seldom that his sister could get him to play. He said it was too warm, or he didn't feel like it. She didn't understand it, for she didn't feel that way at all. Those bunches pushed up into rounded knobs and kept on growing until they were like a couple of short clubs with rounded ends standing straight up on his head. And because for a long time they remained very tender he learned how to twist and turn his head so that when moving through close-growing bushes, or lodging under low branches, those tender growths were seldom touched. In late summer he made a great discovery. Those things on his head were no longer tender. They were becoming hard. It seemed as if with each day they became harder. He no longer had to be careful that nothing should touch them.

By the time the leaves were beginning to turn brown and yellow and red, and nights were cool and the feathered folk were gathering in great flocks ready to start on the long journey to their winter home in the Sunny South, or had already started, those things on his head were no longer knobby. They were pointed and sharp and the skin that had covered them was mostly gone, rubbed off. Such as remained hung in rags and tatters. These didn't last long, for now instead of taking care not to touch trees or anything else with them he spent much time rubbing those two spikes on his head against trees, rubbing off the last bits of skin and polishing the sharp points.

Those two sharp spikes were his first antlers, sure sign that he was growing up. Many folks, perhaps most folks call a deer's antlers horns. Isn't it queer how every now and then more folks are wrong than right in their use of names even when they know better? Horns are hollow, like those of Bossy the Cow. Antlers are solid. Those two pointed spikes were solid, not hollow at all. So it is with all the Deer family. Lightfoot the Deer wears a crown of antlers, not horns.

Now Spike was in high spirits, no longer out of sorts and cross, no longer wanting to keep by himself. He was so proud of those two spikes of antlers that he wanted everybody to see and notice them. Now it was he who was the playful one, not Daintyfoot. When they were small fawns, they used to butt each other in fun and it didn't hurt at all. Now when Spike tried to butt Daintyfoot she did her best to keep out of his way for those sharp points on his head hurt her. That sort of play was too rough. She didn't like it and said so. But

Now Spike was in high spirits, no longer out of sorts and cross, no longer wanting to keep by himself. He was so proud of those two spikes of antlers that he wanted everybody to see and notice them. Now it was he who was the playful one, not Daintyfoot. When they were small fawns, they used to butt each other in fun and it didn't hurt at all. Now when Spike tried to butt Daintyfoot she did her best to keep out of his way for those sharp points on his head hurt her. That sort of play was too rough. She didn't like it and said so. But

and the feathered folk were gathering in great flocks ready to start on the long journey to their winter home in the Sunny South, or had already started, those things on his head were no longer knobby. These didn't last long, for now instead of taking care not to touch trees or anything else with them he spent much time rubbing those two spikes on his head against trees, rubbing off the last bits of skin and polishing the sharp points.

Hero Faces Landladies

WASHINGTON—(AP)—One way to tell a brave man is by his necktie. James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, wore big yellow spots on his cravat. I knew he was fearless. And a good thing, too.

Bearding a lion was nothing to compare. Carey marched into a room full of embattled landladies, sat himself down in front of the senate banking committee, and announced that owners of this nation's flats were getting rich on OPA rents.

Said their income was up 30 to 40 per cent above what it was before the war. Charged that an increase in rents would hamper industrial production and cause divorces. Accused the landlords (and ladies) of trying to destroy rent control and, in passing, got into a little lulu of an argument with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wis. End session.

The landlords swarmed then on the bravest union chief of them all. They grabbed him by the lapels, shook him until his teeth rattled, and called him names that do not ordinarily appear in family newspapers.

WHEN IT LOOKED like a large lady in red with gold bangles on her chest was on the verge of pinning his shoulders to the floor with a half-nelson, Sen. Charles W. Tobey of N. H., the chairman, cried out in alarm.

"Mr. Carey, do you need some protection?"

The ladies' victim gasped an answer, but it was drowned in shrieks that reverberated in the marble halls. The senator banged the table. He banged it again.

"Now ladies," he pleaded, "no violence, please."

The landladies reluctantly let go of hero Carey and he got out of there while the getting was good. The net result in my cra-

More About Deutch

THIS IS a continuation of yesterday's discussion of the remarkable career of Michael Joseph Deutch, who occupied powerful positions in our government during the war when he was not a citizen of the United States. He was naturalized on Feb. 26, 1946, when he received special treatment in the federal court in Alexandria, Va., being admitted to citizenship 34 days after his petition was filed. He had been admitted for "permanent residence" in December, 1940, but had left the country three times, once on government business and had been legally re-admitted as often.

Deutch's final process was expedited at the request of Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, our deputy military governor for Germany, on the ground that his services were required in Germany and that he could not be sent there except as an American citizen. Now Mr. Deutch says he did not go to Germany following his naturalization but remained at his duties in Washington by request of his superior in the office of war mobilization. He has since left the government service and opened his own practice as an engineer.

He said he had no "political" sponsors but that he was recommended for government service by Col. Howard E. Bennion of the Edison Electrical Institute, George Messersmith, then our ambassador to Mexico, and others. He says he was first employed by the board of economic warfare—but after Henry Wallace had left that bureau—to give information on the location of power plants in Germany, and that he has never met Wallace. Mr. Deutch says he never was a "policy guy" in any of his government positions but was just an engineer giving good advice.

He was born in Smolensk, Russia, in 1907, was 34 at the time of Pearl Harbor, was deferred in the draft on the request of government agencies throughout the war and was an alien throughout

Exposes Fade Away

A CONGRESSMAN ONCE announced on the floor of the House that William Drexel, a German shipping exec, was one of the leading Nazi espionage agents in the U. S. He followed it up with a long string of facts about Drexel's nefarious activities. . . . Before a Congressional committee in 1934 this Drexel confessed that he supplied $125,000 bail for German agents. He also admitted in court that he owed his allegiance to Hitler. . . . And then what happened? Absolutely zero, as far as we know. This reporter never again heard or read anything about William Drexel.

Some years ago newspapers spotlighted an expose of officials connected with the Romanoff Caviar Co. of New York. It was revealed that the firm supplied the swampum for various Nazi agents. The gazettes also pointed out that the officials of the company were very chummy with some legislators. An inquiry was promised. . . . At this point in the column you can supply your own finish to the paragraph. The mess was hushed up. . . . The who, what, when, where and why behind the squealing of the probe is another one of those whodunits.

This reporter has frequently pointed out that the easiest way to kick the props from under the anti-democratic plotters is by making public the names of the suckers who supply them with coin. The extreme reluctance of the leaders of those outfits to put those names in the spotlight proves our point. . . . Edward A. Rumley, one of the leaders of the Committee for Constitutional Gov't) refused num was confusion. Somebody's trying to stuff a wad of old rent receipts down the public's throat. After a week of conscientious listening to the evidence I still can't name the villain.

Numerous spokesmen of the landladies, such as Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, insist that the OPA's figures are phoney and the housing shortage is nearly over.

"In about a year from now we're going to be looking for tenants," the elderly Nelson testified. He said that by next month, the shortages in building supplies would be history and new houses would be going up at record rates. He urged that in the meantime the landlords be given a 15 per cent rent increase.

"Though many of them will not avail themselves of it," he added. "They, too, are looking forward to the time when tenants are going to be scarce."

CAME THEN Labor Leader Carey to deny every last thing Nelson said, and add a few charges of his own. He recommended that rents be controlled as is for at least the next year and a half.

"The housing shortage is worse today than ever before," he testified. "There is simply no rental housing available in America today."

The situation is getting no better fast, he continued, because the landlords seem to believe in the theory that the fewer the hospitals, the fewer people will get sick. That started it. Sen. McCarthy said this didn't make sense to him. The landladies finished it and some day I hope to introduce Mr. Nelson to Mr. Carey. I will crouch behind a sheet of armor plate I will have brought along and maybe learn which side is right.

his government service. However, he did request induction and Bradley Dewey, of Cambridge, Mass., a Republican, who was rubber director in the war administration, writes that he "had to tie him down to keep him from throwing up his job and enlisting as a common seaman."

"He is not only an American," Mr. Dewey writes, "but as good an anti-Communist as you or I ever thought of being and he is essentially anti-bureaucratic."

Senator E. H. Moore, of Oklahoma, became interested in Deutch's career on the representations of certain oil men that the industry could have provided a native American to do the same work at least as well. He addressed inquiries to the office of war mobilization and reconversion and received a long pedigree.

In June, 1946, Walter S. Hallanan, of the Plymouth Oil Co., of Pittsburgh, addressed the eastern district of the American Petroleum Institute, in Pittsburgh, and complained that Deutch, an alien at that time, had been placed in authority over the efforts of Americans who had developed the material and scientific resources of the industry which was performing prodigious duties.

Mr. Hallanan thought Dr. Deutch's manner was dictatorial and that he spoke in commanding tones and he strongly resented the selection of an alien for these powers and responsibilities.

Hallanan classified Deutch among those who "enjoy the privilege of pushing people around" and "believe our form of government should be changed to another pattern," while Dewey says that during his Washington experience he met no man whom he considered a more loyal and ardent American. Senator Moore particularly objects to the speedy naturalization by General Clay's request, inasmuch as it turned out that Clay, having put it through, got along without Deutch, after all.

to disclose the names of his outfit's financial backers to a Congressional committee about two years ago. As a result, he was cited for contempt. . . . That was two years ago—but the names of the money-men are still wrapped in an iron asbestos.

Trouble-monger Joseph P. Kamp was also indicted on contempt charges for playing dumb when a Congressional committee requested the names on his sucker list. . . . Several weeks ago Kamp was taken into court—but after a few days of legalistic hemming and having a deadlocked jury caused a mistrial. . . . Kamp's money-men remain a secret. His outfit, The Constitutional Educational League, was named as a tool for Nazis in the original sedition indictment.

Several years ago a reporter for the W. Telly dug up a list of Park Avenue chumps and other wealthy New Yorkers who provided the moola for various swastika tribes. . . . P. S.: The expose was never published.

FORMS READY FOR PERSONAL TAX RETURNS

Auditor Reminds of April 1 Deadline.

Forms for the filing of 1947 personal tax returns were being distributed by County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe today to approximately 4,500 Richland countians to whom the tax applies.

Listing of taxable property by farmers, merchants, manufacturers and professional groups will open Feb. 15. Deadline for filing before application of penalties ranging up to 15 per cent is April 1.

The personal tax applies to general and intangible property. Wolfe explained that the general tax is levied upon those owning form tools and equipment, livestock and hay and grains and to merchants, manufacturers and professional people having inventories, fixtures, equipment, tools or machinery. The general tax is paid on the taxing rate applicable to the district in which the person taxed resides.

The intangible tax is levied upon all who derive income from investments such as stocks, bonds, notes and land contracts but excepting bank stocks, government bonds and rents. The tax is set at five per cent of the yield in 1946.

Individuals and those in partnerships must list on White Form No. 910 and corporations must list on Green Form No. 930, both of which are obtainable at the county auditor's office and at most banks, Wolfe said.

3 Appointed To Committee

The appointment of three Ashland men to executive positions as representatives of Ashland county to the National Home and Property Owners' Foundation was announced today by A. B. Reese, 17th congressional district trustee of the NHOPOF.

Officers of the Ashland county committee are Walter O. Wuthrich, general chairman; A. S. Overly, finance chairman, and Lloyd Fierbaugh, membership chairman.

These men, as well as all other national and state trustees, serve without pay and nearly all of the funds collected by the foundation are used to fight OPA and other governmental controls "that encroach upon the private rights of American citizens," Reese said.

Backed by a 15-point program, the foundation seeks to unite the nation's 27,000,000 owners of homes, farms and other property into one voice for the preservation of individual rights and for the abolishment of war-time controls, Reese explained.

MR. AND MRS. GROVER DICKSON . . . ending public service.

DICKSONS LOOK WITH SATISFACTION ON 20-YEAR TERM AT COUNTY HOME

By NITA BRANSON

There was obvious regret in the tone of voice Mr. and Mrs. Grover Dickson used as they reviewed the 20 years they have been superintendent and matron of the Richland county infirmary.

"There have been unpleasant things, of course, as there are in any job, but we've enjoyed our stay here and am sorry we have to leave," was the way they expressed it.

Their long service at the county institution that they have made a "home" in the real sense of the word for its elderly residents will come to an end April 1. They plan then to retire from active duty and make their residence at 63 Bartley avenue.

DICKSON IS GIVING up his duties because of ill health. Mrs. Dickson, while admitting she is not too anxious to go, yet will be glad in a way because the help problem at the home during the past year has been a difficult one. In their resignation to the county commissioners, Mr. and Mrs. Dickson said:

"In these 20 years we have given to the institution and the residents of the same the very best service of which we were capable; the work in this connection has none of the beauty which now greets the visitor.

"One of the first things we did," Dickson recalls, "was to landscape the grounds. We planted shrubbery, sowed grass and made the yard around the home as nice as possible. Every year we'd plant a tree or two, where we thought they'd be needed."

As the result of this careful planning, the home now is one of the most attractive in the state and the view from its "southern exposure" is an exceptionally interesting one.

ANOTHER IMPROVEMENT which the Dicksons made immediately after taking office, was to complete one of the men's dormitories and install an adjacent lavatory.

The home had 83 residents 20 years ago. Its population grew to 140 during the depression. It now is 74.

"There have been two factors causing that decrease," Mrs. Dickson said, "one, more employment, and the other, old age pensions."

Of the 74 present residents, 14 are women. The oldest, John Hirsch, 96, a bachelor, is confined to his bed in the hospital most of the time.

"DURING THE WINTER we always have an increase," Dickson explained. "Last month we had a half dozen. There will be an increase now until spring, then the number of residents will taper off until cold weather sets in again."

"We have never been able to use the chapel," Mrs. Dickson went on. "When we came we had to put 23 beds in there to help out and although we are not using it for a dormitory now, we have left them there in case there is a sudden increase of residents. When we have services or entertainments, we use the men's dining room. As you notice, we have a piano here for that purpose."

THAT HELP PROBLEM which has worried Mrs. Dickson the past year, has been due a great deal, she says, to transportation.

"There are no buses out here and no way for help to get in to a movie if they care to, except when Mr. Dickson goes. That's one of the first things women will ask. 'How can I get in town when I want to?'"

For the first time since she has been at the home, Mrs. Dickson is having to do the cooking, for the employees. One of the residents there, a former restaurant cook, has charge of the meals.

"He's a better cook," Mrs. Dickson boasted, "than some of the women employees we've had."

Among the employees are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hannan, orderly and nurse.

A TOUR of the home is surprising as well as interesting. There is a spick and span air over the entire building although Mrs. Dickson insisted that because of the lack of help, it wasn't as she wished it. The beds were all beautifully made and with square cut corners, too.

Broad windows let in plenty of light and sunshine. Comfortable rocking chairs provide resting places for weary, old people when they have nothing else to do.

Hallways are adorned with bright colored pots of flowers and ferns. The late afternoon sun, creeping in the windows, make them glisten with unexpected cheer.

THE DICKSONS occupy an apartment with a southern exposure opening on the broad expanse of acres and homes over the countryside.

"It's a nice place to live," Mrs. Dickson said and being a good housekeeper, she should know.

The Dicksons leave at the conclusion of the most satisfactory year, from a financial standpoint, during the 20 they've been there.

"We've had good crops from our 320 acres and the prices have been high," Dickson explained. "This has been one of the few institutions in Richland county that has operated at a low cost because of the good crops."

Up and Down The Street

PICK DOLL BEAUTIES—

It won't be on the same scale as Atlantic City's boardwalk contest, but there'll probably be some pretty fancy dolls to "parade" before the judges at the Public library Feb. 14. Miss Eva Leonard, children's librarian, announced today a combination Story Hour and Doll contest to be held at 10 a. m. that day. Every child who attends the Story Hour is urged to bring a doll—large, small, pretty, funny or unusual. Ribbons for each class will be given. In addition to the children's entries, any person in Mansfield is eligible to enter dolls. The winning dolls will be placed on display at the library the week following the contest, to be judged by Miss Ruth Culbertson, Mrs. L. H. Funk and Miss Portia Schiller. There's no entrance fee for the contest, but all entrants are asked to pin a card to their doll, with name and address and age written on it.

ARMY GOES NAVY.

Navy recruiters in Mansfield claim, jestingly, that the army is going navy. Three out of four V-6 naval inactive reserve enlistees yesterday were ex-army men, who have decided to sink or swim with the navy reserve, according to Chief J. T. Daley. Mansfielders Peter H. Deschner, 182 Crouse street, and Carl W. Hoffman, 155 Park avenue east, and Regis H. Stoffer, of Ashland made up the army trio. Just to keep the record straight, Daley said, one ex-navy man also enlisted yesterday. Talmadge H. Lewis, 542½ Springmill street, joined the reserve.

... Chatter ...

Richard S. Barr, 34 Western avenue, receiving a letter from his cousin, Louis D. Barr, former Mansfield attorney, now in Oakland, Calif., expressing appreciation of the year-end copy of the News-Journal. "It was read with a great deal of interest, as to excellent progress that is being made. It is a most excellent paper, modern and with worthwhile feature writers of national importance. Kindest regards to oldtime friends."

Miss Estelle E. Carter, 375 South Main street, receiving an embroidered white silk Japanese Scarf from her nephew, Capt. Albert F. Carter, now stationed at Tokyo. Capt. Carter is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, 406 Hammond avenue, and the late Albert F. Carter. Rev. Albert L. Linder, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, expressing admiration for Pastor Martin Niemöller, who spoke at the Ohio Pastors' convention in Columbus last week.

Two sets of Mansfield grandparents being congratulated on the recent birth of a granddaughter at Good Samaritan hospital in Dayton. The child's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hosteller, former Mansfield residents. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Damon F. Smith, South Boulevards and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hosteller, 126 Blanche street.

Arthur Bullock, houseman at General hospital, shivering today while recalling that his ancestor, Capt. James Cook, famous English navigator and explorer, spent much of his time around the Arctic circle. Bullocks thinks Mansfield is cold enough.

4TH MEMBER OF GROUP ON TRIAL TODAY

Three Other Men Convicted In Common Pleas Court Here.

Three men were convicted in common pleas court yesterday. Two were sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary and two were committed to Lima state hospital. One of the sentences was ordered on a former conviction.

In the same court this morning a fourth member of a five-man gang accused of the recent wave of attacks on Mansfield women was on trial on a charge of assault with intent to rape.

Yesterday Roy Briggs, 27-year-old apparent ring leader of the attack gang, was convicted of armed robbery. Previously he had pleaded guilty to a rape charge and on the basis of that conviction was committed to the Lima state hospital for mental examination. Sentence on both charges was deferred pending completion of the hospital report.

One of his companions, 16-year-old Robert Andrews, pleaded guilty to rape and was also committed to the Lima hospital. Both were defended by Atty. Joseph Allison.

Third in Reformatory. A third member of the gang, 16-year-old Link Briggs, brother of Roy, is already serving a term in the Ohio State reformatory. He was convicted in juvenile court of robbery in one of the attacks.

In common pleas court this morning was Charlie Will Williams, 18-year-old member of the gang accused of assault with intent to rape. Shortly before noon Prosecutor Theodore Lutz rested his case and the trial was recessed until this afternoon.

Still pending before common pleas court is the fate of the fifth member of the group, 28-year-old Robert Briggs, brother of Link and Roy, who is charged with robbery. Atty. George W. Biddle has pleaded him innocent to the charge.

Meanwhile, yesterday John Owens, indicted on first degree manslaughter, was pleaded guilty by Biddle. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch sentenced Owens to one to 20 years in the penitentiary.

Galion Man Sentenced.

Interrupting the disposal of January indictments by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch yesterday was the sentencing of Ellsworth Moyer, 32-year-old Galion father convicted of rape and incest by a three-judge court.

The court overruled a motion for a new trial filed on behalf of Moyer by his attorneys, Biddle of Mansfield and George W. Coble of Galion, before sentencing him to one to 20 years in the penitentiary on the rape conviction and one to 10 years on the incest conviction.

Judges who had heard the case and pronounced sentences are Clarence U. Ahl of Crawford county, H. E. Culbertson of Ashland county and D. A. Cook of Lorain county.
